[B] Reading & Critical Thinking

(2) Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

No matter how much we strive to make our domestic environment as safe as possible, accidents at home can still happen – even in the most conscientious of households. When it comes to the health of our families, especially for those with young children, it makes sense to know exactly what to do if these common scenarios do occur.

An example of the most common accidents that can happen in the home is falling objects. When children start to move around on their own, there's an increased danger of them pulling down on top of themselves. Being conscious of your kids' health means making sure any trailing electrical leads, table cloth edges and dish towels are out of reach in order to help prevent accidents happening.

Another example is trips and fall. A fall can affect people of all ages, but they are most common among the very young and the very old. Often, falling over as a child will only hurt their pride and a few soothing words is all that's needed. However, if the person who has fallen subsequently becomes drowsy, vomits or loses consciousness, it is important to seek medical advice.

A. Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

1- Which of the following is the best title for the passage?

- b. What is done when a person goes on a trip.

- d. goes
